

In Journey by Aaron Becker, the main character draws a magic door into another world.

Where would your
MAGIC DOOR lead?

A large, hand-drawn archway with horizontal lines inside, intended for a drawing or answer. The arch is formed by a thick black outline. Inside the arch, there are 15 horizontal lines of varying lengths, creating a series of rectangular sections. The top two lines are shorter, fitting within the curve of the arch, while the remaining lines extend to the full width of the arch's base. The bottom of the arch is a straight horizontal line.
